Definition and Indicators

Success and Scale Bring Broad Responsibility
We started in a garage, but we're not there anymore. We are big, we impact the world, and we are far from perfect. We must be humble and thoughtful about even the secondary effects of our actions. Our local communities, planet, and future generations need us to be better every day. We must begin each day with a determination to make better, do better, and be better for our customers, our employees, our partners, and the world at large. And we must end every day knowing we can do even more tomorrow. Leaders create more than they consume and always leave things better than how they found them.
Concern	Mild Concern	Mixed	Mild Strength	Strength
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Possesses a narrow view of reach in the world; doesn't recognize even small actions can have broad downstream consequences</li> <li>• Doesn't evaluate the impact of their actions at scale</li> <li>• Makes decisions to optimize for success regardless of the costs</li> <li>• Views oneself and the world as perfect; dismisses identified areas for improvement</li> <li>• Doesn't take time to support/help others</li> </ul>			<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Evaluates the broad implications of their actions at scale</li> <li>• Makes decisions by weighing the benefits and potential downstream consequences</li> <li>• Recognizes what is effective today may not be appropriate for tomorrow; course corrects when unintentional consequences are identified</li> <li>• Actively listens and asks the right questions to find ways (big or small) to make a difference/contribution</li> <li>• Contributes time/skill/knowledge/expertise to help/support others</li> </ul>

1. Tell me about a time you worked on a project that had impact beyond your immediate client/customer/organization. How did you approach the potential downstream impact of this work? When in the course of the project did you start thinking about this impact, and what efforts did you make to manage this impact? What were the risks?
2. Tell me about a time when you decided to change a decision because of unintended consequences for your customers. What was the impact to your customers? What tradeoffs did you have to make? How did your new solution better serve your customers?
